CINCINNATI FILM SOCIETY'S RESOURCES ON THE RISE...LAYS GROUND WORK FOR A HOME...HOSTS FILM RAISER BRUNCH

The CFS, whose mission is to embrace, inform and promote cultural diversity through film, continues to ramp up its programs in 2016, including:

- The LGBT film fest OutReels Cincinnati providing a cash award
- The Filmmaker in Motion program supporting regional filmmakers
- The Emerging Filmmaker Award honoring Greater Cincinnati filmmakers

NEW HOME

And now the CFS is closer to getting a PERMANENT HOME thanks to Jon Stevens and Cory Mangas, owners of The Mockbee, who are donating space for the film cafe and Filmmaker in Motion studio. "We believe that the growing movie industry in Cincinnati will be well served by the Cincinnati Film Society and this grass roots style incubator," says Stevens. "We look forward to being involved in that effort in anyway possible. (CFS) will be a great addition to the Brewery District." The building at 269 W. McMicken faces rehab on all levels but the CFS' fundraising goal of 50K by Oct. 16, 2016, will help open the facility and fund the filmmaker programs.
